Non-existing as a physical concept, what we identify as cold isn’t more than the absence of heat.

So, in order to refrigerate a product, we need to remove the heat of that product till the necessary temperature.